My day job is an event organiser, for too many years to count, organising B2B exhibitions and conferences. I am a mother of two teenagers and always seem to be busy juggling too much!

I try to keep healthy and have always done a bit of cycling over the years, and a friend who is a volunteer introduced me to Wheels for All so I went along to find out more and was amazed.

I just love seeing the happiness it brings to the families and groups who participate.

Sometimes it's the only exercise participants are able to have - Wheels for All gives them access to a safe and secure environment for them to have fun and be outside.

Wheels for All has definitely given me an insight into a different world that I knew very little about, and that a little bit of my time can make a big difference to a less able bodied family or group.
